The lady of the house will open the doors of her house and cook for you a typical Sicilian menu, all genuine dishes prepared at home, in the suggestive location of an ancient baglio built in 1875, which belonged to the Florio family, intended for the production of white, red and famous Marsala wines. Even today, various agricultural and wine-making equipment from the past are still kept inside, such as the original millstones with majolica where the grapes were crushed with bare feet!

Before dinner you can stroll through the vineyards with the hosts and learn about the family history.
